SKNY Supplements ; I have owned the registered trade mark SKNY CKTLS for approximately ten years. The mark was originally created for a range of lower-calorie cocktails. Over time, increasingly restrictive rules surrounding health and nutritional claims in relation to alcoholic beverages have limited the way in which that concept can be developed and communicated. We have therefore developed SKNY Supplements as a natural extension of the SKNY brand into the health and nutritional supplement sector. SKNY Supplements is not intended to be a weight-loss product or a range that causes or promotes weight loss. The products are being developed as nutritional supplements for consumers who are reducing their food intake as part of a weight-management programme, including consumers using GLP-1 medicines under appropriate medical supervision. People substantially reducing their food intake may find it more difficult to consume adequate quantities of certain nutrients through their normal diet. The SKNY Supplements range is therefore intended to provide convenient nutritional support through carefully selected products containing ingredients such as protein, fibre, vitamins, minerals and electrolytes. The purpose of the range is to support normal nutritional intake and general health and wellbeing during periods of reduced food consumption. It is not intended to replace a balanced diet, treat obesity, replicate the effects of GLP-1 medicines or make medicinal weight-loss claims. The proposed SKNY branding reflects the established branding which I have used and protected for approximately ten years, while allowing the brand to expand from its original alcoholic beverage application into a distinct range of nutritional supplement products.
