The mark consists of a stylised figurative design composed of nine circular nodes. On the left, four nodes are arranged to form a stylised human figure: one detached node representing a head, positioned above three interconnected nodes forming a 'V' shape to represent a torso and arms. On the right, five interconnected nodes form a larger, right-pointing chevron or arrow-like shape. The two elements are separated by a clean channel of negative space, creating an interlocking visual relationship that suggests movement and progression.

The mark for which a trademark registration is sought is a position mark which is specified by the position in which it is fixed. The mark consists of a front grille whose position is in the central part of the front face of a vehicle, between the headlights. The other elements in the image with a blue overlay and blur effect are disclaimed – they are not part of the mark and serve only to show an example of the shape of the automobile on which the mark is fixed.
