Class 7:
Industrial electrolysis machines and machinery for hydrogen production; electrolysis machines designed to operate on impure or variable- quality water sources including tap, brackish, effluent and reclaimed water; modular electrolysis machines for industrial, commercial and decentralised hydrogen production; low-voltage, high-current electrolysis machinery; electrochemical machinery for gas generation; integrated machinery for conditioning water prior to electrolysis.

Class 9:
Electrolysis control systems; electronic, electrical and electrochemical apparatus for monitoring, analysing and managing water-fed hydrogen production; sensors and diagnostic devices for detecting conductivity, turbidity, dissolved solids, contamination, flow rate, temperature, voltage, current, gas purity and system performance; embedded firmware and downloadable software for controlling electrolysis, water treatment, hydrogen production and safety systems; AI-based and machine-learning control algorithms for real-time optimisation, predictive maintenance and anomaly detection in hydrogen generation; telemetric communication modules for remote monitoring of electrolysis installations; data processing hardware for hydrogen system management.

Class 11:
Hydrogen generation installations; apparatus for producing hydrogen gas from water; integrated water-handling and gas-delivery apparatus for hydrogen- generation systems; installations for continuous hydrogen gas production using variable-quality water sources.

Class 42:
Development of platform technologies for water-tolerant electrolysis; scientific and industrial research in electrochemistry, water treatment, hydrogen production, gas separation and system optimisation; engineering design and technical consultancy relating to hydrogen production systems; software as a service (SaaS) for monitoring and controlling hydrogen generation; cloud-based platforms for data analysis, system diagnostics and operational optimisation; research and development of algorithms for water-quality compensation, adaptive control and electrochemical performance modelling.
